When Lloyd's Register was founded in 1760, the classification of ships was its only activity. Classification originally meant precisely that: LR would classify the ship according to its quality of construction and standard of maintenance, with indicative gradings.

More than two hundred years later, classification is still LR's principal business, but today LR sets standards for design, construction and maintenance of ships, floating docks and fixed and mobile offshore rigs. A ship, rig or floating dock must meet LR's requirements to retain its classification – there is no second class for Lloyd's Register.

LR's long experience in the survey of ships, led to diversification into inspection for offshore and general industrial projects.

LR is now an international inspection organisation, operating from over 255 offices, undertaking work on behalf of more than 130 national administrations. LR employs over 3,900 technical and administrative staff; the technical surveyors work exclusively for LR and include naval architects, marine engineers, metallurgists, QA analysts, NDE experts and other specialist staff.

LR is a financially independent, non-profit-distributing organisation, which means that income from fees can be used to improve technical services worldwide. The organisation provides third-party inspection and quality assurance without prejudice in a commercial contract, and it is this impartiality and independence which our customers value most highly.

LR's operational decisions are influenced by various national committees around the world, which include local representatives from the maritime and industrial community. The 17 national committees are headed by a General Committee, which includes the chairmen of the national committees, as well as representatives from the fields in which LR operates, and a Technical Committee, which consists largely of representatives nominated by marine and industrial institutions.

Classification Services

LR's requirements for classification of ships are published in the Rules and Regulations for the Classification of Ships, and there are similar rules for floating docks and fixed and mobile rigs. These rules are continually updated, and additionally incorporate changing international requirements.

When a shipowner decides to have his ship built to LR class, the design will be checked for compliance with LR's rules, and when the ship begins building, no matter where in the world it is to be built, surveyors will attend the shipyard, to ensure that standards are maintained in construction.

Upon completion, LR issues a classification certificate, from which the owner, charterer, crew and underwriter can be confident that the ship meets the standards of safety and quality required by LR's rules.

Surveys during the life of the ship ensure that the standards laid down in design and construction are maintained. Owners of LR-classed ships can employ LR CLASSDATA, a free, confidential and on-line service to owners, which keeps them up-to-date with the survey requirements for their vessels.

Classification is available for all kinds of vessels: from floating docks to passenger vessels, from international racing class yachts to large container ships, from ro-ro ferries to large tankers. It can also extend to equipment and machinery designed for a specific purpose: propulsion systems; electrical control systems; mechanical lifts; and liquefied gas containment systems. As an alternative, LR will issue a certificate confirming compliance with national or international rules.

Statutory Services

International Conventions, codes and protocols concerning ship safety and marine pollution are agreed by the member states of the United Nations agency, the International Maritime Organisation (IMO). LR participates in the work of IMO as a technical adviser, and is well informed of international requirements and trends in statutory work around the world.

The growing volume and complexity of international conventions' requirements demand expert knowledge and interpretation, and without statutory certification, ships cannot operate internationally. The conventions and codes usually stipulate inspection and certification as part of enforcement, and more than 130 member states have authorised LR to carry out such inspections on their behalf.

LR performs statutory surveys covering international conventions relating to load lines; cargo ship construction; safety equipment; fire protection, detection and extinction; radio equipment; passenger ship safety; grain loading; collision and pollution prevention; tonnage measurement, chemical and liquefied gas carrier construction; and crew accommodation.

Specification Services

There is sometimes a need for advisory and supervisory services which do not comprise a part of classification: when the major concern is compliance with the owner's requirements as much as statutory requirements.

LR's independent project management team – MARSPEC – provides a wide range of technical advisory services for shipowners, designers and builders.

MARSPEC provides specialist advice on many features of design, contract specification, operation, maintenance and comfort which are not covered by regulations or statutory regulations, but which are of prime importance to the owner.

Feasibility studies, plan appraisal and supervision during construction are undertaken on behalf of owners. As MARSPEC is completely independent from classification, the service can be offered to all ships, even those not classed with LR.

Industrial Services

Lloyd's Register diversified into the industrial sector more than 60 years ago, when owners and operators of complex plant began to recognise the value of professional, independent assessments. Today, the demand for high quality technical inspection services encompasses the spectrum of general, mechanical and electrical engineering. The biggest industrial venture to date is the Sizewell B nuclear power station.

LR's Industrial Division provides independent advisory and inspection services for all types of industrial plant, machinery and engineering projects – from the smallest component to the largest industrial complex – all over the world. LR sets the standards for ship classification, but for industrial inspection services, LR will ensure that components or whole projects comply with any recognised national or international standard, or with the client's own specification.

Industrial inspections can involve examining project specifications and designs, assessing manufacturers' quality assurance and quality control systems; ensuring material, construction and testing comply with relevant specifications and standards; supervising installation of equipment on site. On completion of the work LR will issue certificates which confirm that the components or the total construction comply with the inspection requirements.

Offshore Services

The oil industry first turned to LR more than 50 years ago, when independent third party inspection was required for a Middle Eastern refinery. As the oil companies became more interested in offshore production, LR's involvement increased rapidly. In the last two decades the offshore oil industry has expanded dramatically, and LR now classes or certifies all types of offshore structures, frequently acting as the approved certifying agency on behalf of governments. To date, LR has been involved with over 600 fixed platforms constructed of steel or concrete, including 130 platforms certified on behalf of the UK government in the North Sea.

Safety and reliability of fixed platforms, jack-up rigs, semi-submersibles, articulated structures and tension leg platforms starts at the design stage. LR carries out independent structural analysis, which has resulted in the development of major computer packages employing interactive colour graphics running on dedicated computers and advanced finite element modelling techniques.

LR helps to ensure that the inspection and quality control procedures employed by manufacturers, consultants or sub-contractors are adequate, and that the specification and standards are applied throughout the entire contract until the installation is commissioned at the offshore site.

When a platform is ready to be towed to its offshore location, LR advises on the different transport aspects, and surveyors travelling with the platform closely observe every stage of loading, ballasting and tipping during controlled flooding of these huge fabrications. LR surveyors fly out to and live on the platforms, witness installation and hook-up of modules, and testing of equipment. When satisfied, they issue final certification enabling drilling operations to start.

During service life, fixed or mobile offshore equipment classed or certified by LR is inspected at regular intervals – above and below the waterline – to check possible structural damage, corrosion and marine growth, and to reassure owners and operators that all operational systems are in order.

Engineering Services

A wide range of specialist engineering and advisory services has evolved from our involvement with all aspects of engineering, design, production and experience in the marine, industrial and offshore fields.

LR's Engineering Services Group supports LR's Ship, Industrial and Offshore Divisions and also provides technical services to clients. The Group's activities encompass product type approval, materials testing, selection and production approval, non-destructive examination, performance and information technology, technical investigations, environmental engineering and machinery design and dynamics.

We provide design appraisal and technical advisory services for control engineering installations, electrical equipment and systems, piping and pressure systems, together with specialist services covering all types of lifting and materials handling equipment.

Services offered include thermal stress evaluations; temperature flow calculations; structural, limit state, fatigue and marine shafting analyses; fracture mechanics; finite element modelling; propulsion hydrodynamics and air pollution monitoring.

Advisory Services

In response to the needs of clients, LR has created an Advisory Services Group which provides a single point contact for clients who require advice in environmental, quality and safety related issues. Environmental compliance, management systems, pre-acquisition and waste management audits are undertaken. LR provides advice for structuring, documenting and implementing quality management systems worldwide. Safety risk assessments and audits complement the range of services, enabling clients to comply with increasing environmental and safety legislation worldwide, at sea or on land.

Subsidiary Companies

There are a number of subsidiary companies offering services which are complementary to the activities of the parent organisation: LRQA Ltd, the first company in the UK to be officially accredited to provide assessment and certification of quality management systems for a wide range of businesses to meet the requirements of the international standard ISO 9000; Roentgen Technische Dienst (RTD), which provides third party non-destructive examination and engineering inspection services; LR Insurance, Inc., which provides full inspection to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers' (ASME) codes for pressure vessels anywhere in the world.

In providing services, information or advice, neither Lloyd's Register of Shipping (hereinafter referred to as 'LR') nor any of its officers, employees or agents warrants the accuracy of any information or advice supplied. Except as set out herein, neither LR nor any of its officers, employees or agents (on behalf of each of whom LR has agreed this clause) shall be liable for any loss, damage or expense whatever sustained by any person due to any act, omission or error of whatsoever nature and howsoever caused of LR, its officers, employees or agents or due to any inaccuracy of whatsoever nature and howsoever caused in any information or advice given in any way whatsoever by or on behalf of LR, even if held to amount to a breach of warranty. LR, its officers, employees or agents (on behalf of each of whom this notice is given) shall be under no liability or responsibility in negligence or otherwise howsoever to any person who is not a party to the agreement with LR pursuant to which any certificate, statement, data or report is issued in respect of any information or advice expressly or impliedly given by LR or in respect of any omission or inaccuracy therein or in respect of any act or omission which has caused or contributed to any certificate, statement, data or report being issued with the information and advice it contains (if any).

The additional terms and conditions which apply in the case of services rendered during the construction of a yacht to Lloyd's Register class are defined on the Request for Marine Services during Construction (form 2500).

The additional terms and conditions which apply in the case of services rendered at periodical surveys to maintain the class of a yacht are defined on the Interim Certificate (form 1491).

Just as the world famous 100A1 classification symbol indicates that a ship has been built to the exacting requirements of Lloyd's Register's rules, so the same symbol is available to the individual yacht owner. Classification is open to all types of yachts provided the constructional details conform to the requirements laid down by Lloyd's Register.

Yachts built in accordance with Lloyd's Register's rules for wood, steel and aluminium alloy or fibre reinforced plastic will be classed 100A1 Yacht or, in the case of International Rating Class Yachts, class R.

An owner desiring classification should, when ordering a new yacht, specify that the yacht be built to Lloyd's Register class. The builder will then, through the designer, become responsible for submitting the necessary plans for Lloyd's Register's approval, and will request a special survey during construction in accordance with Lloyd's Register's requirements, so that the appropriate class may be assigned on completion.

Premises of moulders and builders of yachts must be inspected to ensure that management and facilities are capable and satisfactory to mould/build hulls to the standard required by Lloyd's Register for classification.

For maintenance of classification, periodical surveys and repairs are carried out under the supervision of Lloyd's Register surveyors; such a procedure helps to keep a yacht in a high state of efficiency and to preserve her sale value, in addition to the benefit of having a competent, independent and experienced organization to safeguard the owner's interest.

KEY TO THE REGISTER OF CLASSED YACHTS

KEY TO LIST OF YACHTOWNERS

This list reflects the ownership as shown in the Register of Classed Yachts. Where a manager is also recorded for a yacht in the Register then the entry in the List of Yachtowners will be found under the manager's name with the owner's name as a sub-heading in brackets. In such cases a cross-reference from owners to managers is also included.

The short name printed in capital letters on the first line of each entry is intended to facilitate quick reference and is an abbreviated version of the owner's or manager's name. The number in brackets on the first line is the owners or manager's unique code number.

This is followed by the full name-style, postal address, telephone number, telefax number, telex number and cable address.

Each yacht is preceded by the two letter abbreviation 'yt'. The year of build and the gross tonnage are also shown.

Indicates flag registry under which the yacht normally operates. An entry printed in parentheses indicates the last known flag.

Satellite Communication Identity No.

The identification number and answerback assigned by the appropriate authority.

Former LR Identity No.

The six figure number prefixed by the letter Y, formerly used in the Register of Classed Yachts up to 1994.

3 (TONS)

Gross tonnage

The Gross Tonnage printed in bold type indicates that the yacht has been measured in accordance with the tonnage regulations adopted prior to the coming into force of the International Convention on Tonnage Measurement of Ships 1969 on 18th July 1982. This Gross Tonnage is broadly, the capacity in cubic feet of the spaces within the hull, and of the enclosed spaces above the deck available for stores, fuel, passengers and crew, with certain exceptions, divided by 100. Thus 100 cubic feet of capacity is equivalent to 1 gross ton. The Gross Tonnage printed in italic type indicates that the yacht has been measured in accordance with the requirements of the International Convention on Tonnage Measurement of Ships 1969. This tonnage is derived by calculating the total enclosed volume of the yacht and using this capacity in the formula specified within the Convention.

Net tonnage

The Net Tonnage is derived from the corresponding Gross Tonnage printed in bold type by deducting spaces used for the accommodation of the master, crew, navigation, and propelling machinery (if deductible). The Net Tonnage printed in italic type when derived in accordance with the International Convention on Tonnage Measurement of Ships 1969 is a function of the Gross Tonnage.

Displacement

The weight in tonnes (1000 kg) of the yacht when loaded to her maximum draught.

Classification symbols of Lloyd's Register of Shipping Hull and equipment

⚙	This distinguishing mark denotes that the yacht was constructed under the Society's Special Survey in compliance with the Society's Rules.
100	Character figure assigned to yachts considered suitable for sea-going service.
A	This character letter will be assigned to all yachts, with the exception of yachts designed and intended for racing under the Rules of the International Yacht Racing Union, which have been built or accepted into class in accordance with the Society's Rules and Regulations and which are maintained in good and efficient condition.
R	This character letter will be assigned to yachts designed and intended for racing under the Rules of the International Yacht Racing Union for the International Rating Classes (for 5,5 m, 6,0 m and 12,0 m rating) and built in accordance with the Rules for the Construction and Classification of Yachts of the International Rating Classes , and the Society's requirements for this class.
1	The character figure is assigned to: (a) Yachts having on board, in good and efficient condition, anchoring and/or mooring equipment in accordance with the Rules.
—	This character symbol, in the position usually occupied by the figure 1, is assigned to yachts when the anchoring and mooring equipment is not in accordance with the requirements of the Rules but is considered to be acceptable.

Special surveys

SS-with date	Special Survey. A record of any later Special Survey will be published in the monthly Supplement to the Register of Ships.
M-with date	Modified Special Survey, indicating that the yacht has been surveyed for the appropriate Special Survey but repairs effected only for a limited period. The period for which the class is maintained follows the date.
CS-with date	Continuous Survey of the hull.

Records of all periodical surveys will be found in the Classification Survey Dates Supplement to the Register of Ships.

Machinery

⚙LMC	Notation assigned when the propelling and essential auxiliary machinery has been constructed, installed and tested under the Society's Special Survey and in accordance with the Society's Rules.
*LMC	This notation will be assigned to yachts when the propelling and essential auxiliary machinery is of an approved standard type and where each main engine does not exceed 500 kW (680 shp) and has not been constructed under survey at the maker's works, but has been installed and tested under the Society's Special Survey in accordance with the Society's Rules and Regulations.
⚙LMC	Notation assigned when the propelling and essential auxiliary machinery has been constructed under the survey of a recognized authority in accordance with Rules and Regulations equivalent to those of the Society and, in addition, the whole of the machinery has been installed and tested under the Society's Special Survey in accordance with the Society's Rules.
LMC	This notation is assigned to machinery of yachts submitted for classification, which although not built nor installed under supervision, is found or placed in accordance with Lloyd's Register's Rule requirements for machinery at a Special Survey for Classification, or in those cases where the propelling and essential auxiliary machinery can be deemed to be existing by virtue of having been procured without Lloyd's Register's Special Survey but where the machinery has been installed and tested under survey and found to be acceptable to Lloyd's Register.

- UMS This notation may be assigned to a yacht which can be operated with the machinery spaces unattended and where the control engineering equipment has been arranged, installed and tested in accordance with the Society's Rules.
- (UMS) When the UMS notation is shown in parenthesis, this indicates that approval of the control engineering equipment has been temporarily suspended.

Equipment Letter (EL)

A A† B*, etc. Equipment Letters determined by the Society's Rules for Ships. These are followed by either the diameter and grade of chain cable on the yacht or the length and diameter of the chain cable in metres and millimetres respectively and grade of chain cable.

U1 U2 U3 U4 Grades of chain cable, other than wrought iron or mild steel fire-welded, as defined in the Society's Rules.

Withdrawal of Class

'LR class withdrawn—Owners request' indicates that when the Owners requested withdrawal of class from the Register Book, the rule requirements had up to that time been complied with.

'LR class withdrawn' indicates that at the time of withdrawal of class from the Register Book, the rule requirements had not been complied with.

'LR class withdrawn—Reported defects' indicates that owing to reported defects, the yacht was not entitled to retain her class in the Register Book.

Classification with other Societies

If a yacht is classed with another Society, the initial letters of the Society are recorded as shown below. Where these letters are shown in parentheses indicates that the yacht was previously classed with that Society.

AB	American Bureau of Shipping
BV	Bureau Veritas
GL	Germanischer Lloyd AG
NK	Nippon Kaiji Kyokai
NV	Det Norske Veritas Classification A/S
RI	Registro Italiano Navale

5 (HULL)

Following the conversion of imperial to SI units in the 1987 Register, it is possible that measurements in metres can be inaccurate by up to 30 millimetres.

Date of build

For yachts built under the supervision of Lloyd's Register surveyors, the date of build, specified by the year and month, shall be the date at which the new construction survey process is completed. The date of commissioning may be specified in case of substantial delay between completion of construction and the yacht commencing active service.

For yachts built under the supervision of other classification societies, the date of build shall be the year as shown in their respective Registers. For other yachts, the reported year of completion of construction is shown.

In all instances where there has been a significant interval between the launching and the completion or commissioning of the yacht, two dates are recorded prefixed by Lch. and Cmpl. or Cmd. The abbreviation Recmd. means recommissioned.

Yachtbuilders and place of build

This normally records the yard where the hull of the yacht was built. When it is known that major sections of the hull have been constructed by other builders, their names are also recorded, but the entry of a single builder's name in no way implies that all of the hull has been fabricated in that yard.

The underlined letter indicates the letter under which the yachtbuilder appears in the List of Yachtbuilders.

Yard number

The builder's number(s) is shown for the hull section(s).

Overall length

The distance measured parallel to the static load waterline from the fore side of the stern to the after side of the stern or transom, excluding rubbing strakes and other projections.

Bulbous bow (BB): When the overall length is followed by the notation (BB) this indicates that the yacht has a bulbous bow and the overall length recorded includes any protrusion of that bow.

Length W.L. (waterline)

The distance measured on the static load waterline from the fore side of the stern to the after side of the stern or transom.

Extreme Breadth

The extreme breadth is the maximum breadth to the outside of the yacht's structure excluding rubbing strakes or other projections.

Moulded breadth

The moulded breadth is the greatest breadth at amidships from heel of frame to heel of frame.

Maximum draught

The maximum draught to bottom of keel.

Depth

The depth is the vertical distance at amidships from the bottom of keel to the top of the upper deck at side.

Alterations

alt	altered
conv	converted/adapted (from)
len	lengthened
ND	New Deck
pt	part

6 (YACHT TYPE)

Description of yacht

Unless otherwise stated, yachts are of steel construction. Where higher tensile steel is extensively used in the main hull structure of a yacht, a suitable note is inserted below the description of the yacht.

The description of the yacht given in this column is not a Lloyd's Register classification notation. The information published in bold type on the first line indicates the basic type of the yacht including hull material other than steel. The second and subsequent lines define the rig of sailing yachts, the name of the designer and the class or standard type of yacht including IYRU International Rating Class.

Power

For engines classed in accordance with Lloyd's Register Rules, the power recorded is the total maximum designed shaft power approved.

In diesel-electric machinery, the total shaft power of the oil engines is recorded, together with the rated power output and voltage of each electric generator and each electric motor.

bhp	brake horsepower (oil engines)

shp	shaft horsepower (turbines and electric motors)

Design

The engine design is recorded together with the designation of makers type where known.

Auxiliary electrical generating plant

The number of generators is given, followed by the rated power output and voltage, d.c. or a.c., of each generator and, in an a.c. installation, the frequency in hertz (Hz). These are listed in descending order of rated power output. Emergency sources of power and sets used solely for harbour purposes are not recorded.

Fuel bunkers

The capacity of the bunkers is recorded in tonnes (t).

The oil fuel capacity is the capacity of all spaces, including double bottom spaces, which are permanently fitted for the carriage of oil fuel and which have permanent provision for its use on board. The capacity of settling tanks is included.

Special propellers

Special type propellers are recorded, i.e. directional, controllable pitch and athwartship thrust propellers. Stern jet pumps are published when known.

Speed in knots

The speed recorded is that which the yacht is stated to be capable of maintaining at sea in normal weather and at normal service draught.

Boilers

All pressure values are shown in bar, as well as the equivalent pressure in kilogram-force per square centimetre or pound-force per square inch in parentheses. When details of boilers are recorded in parentheses thus: (AuxB 6,9 bar) (7 kgf/cm<sup>2</sup>) this indicates that the boiler is temporarily out of use.

hs heating surface. The figure recorded is the total evaporation surface of boilers in square metres plus the total surface of superheaters plus half the surface of economisers and is used for calculating the fees for periodical surveys of water tube boilers. Where the figures are recorded in parentheses they may represent only the heating surface of the boilers.
